

Oct. 28, 2011

Dear Parents,

The big change this week was snow and all the “stuff” that comes with it! There are so many things to misplace and our coat rack is pretty small. So please make sure everything is marked. I got to experience this for the first time as a parent of 3 year olds this week. I totally empathize!

We continued our family unit and talked about relatives and family trees. We have lots of variety in our families.

We wrote our autobiographies this week. It’s interesting to see what life events are important to first graders.

We had fun reading about bats and learned some interesting facts.

Halloween is near! Thank you to Jody Miller and Lindsay Waymire for coordinating and to those of you who signed up to send items or help. It sounds like the weather will cooperate. It also sounds like we will be parading outside, so costumes could be chilly.

Homework this week involves math with Halloween candy instead of math puzzles. Remember to return Oct. reading logs. You and your child also have more family homework.

Have an exciting weekend.

Sincerely,

Becky

Swanstrom